

In today's increasingly polarized and intolerant culture, the ability to understand others' motives and choices is critical. Theater can help build responsible global citizens. Performing Arts allow an avenue to develop cognitive abilities that complement study in other disciplines

Theater-in- Education can provide students with an outlet for emotions, thoughts and dreams.

It's only in the Theater/drama class a student can, if only for a few moments, "become another", explore a new role, try out and experiment with various personal choices solutions and understanding connecting to real life situations.

Like all the arts, Theater/Drama allows students to communicate with and understand others in new ways. Perhaps more than any other art form. Theater/Drama also provides training in the very practical aspects of communication so necessary in today's increasingly information-centered world.

Performing Arts helps the students to think outside the box and be more confident going into unfamiliar situations. Confidence gained from learning performing Arts skills applies to real life situations. Rehearsing and performing lines and movements will improve memory of the child.

Rangmanch strongly uses 'Theatre in Education' (TIE) program which presents a novel approach in engaging young people in education on issues related to health, well-being and society. Theatre in Education works on a fundamental level because it is interactive. Rangmanch engages in Theatre Arts Training (TAT) program which reaches out to people of all ages, ranging from early learners to young adults.
